

Do you like it Dirty?

If so you will love my Rover 214si as it could really do with a good clean.

I am offering it for spares or repair although it does run really well, has an MOT until the end of March and Tax until the end of June.

So why are you selling it?

- Good Question, well to be honest it has a few things wrong with it and I thought that rather than fix them I would go and buy myself another car.

But the Rover 214si is a quality car, what could possibly be wrong with it that would make you want to sell it?

- It is a quality car there is no denying that, but the defect list is as follows: -
 - The electric windows don't work - some hoodie wearing job broke in to it while it was parked up near Reading and the windows never worked after the new glass was put in. On the plus side, if you are looking for a car with new glass in the windows then look no further, this is the vehicle you have been searching for.
 - The Intermittent function on the front windscreen wipers is very intermittent indeed, it sometimes works and sometimes it doesn't. To be honest it is quite entertaining trying to guess where on the windscreen the wiper blade will actually stop, plus as the rest of the wiper functions work fine it's not really a big headache.
 - The internal heater / cooler fan only works on setting 3 and above, not sure why it decided to not blow out any air on settings 1 or 2 but as far as I see it if you want air blowing inside the car then open a window. Obviously you wont be able to close it again afterwards (see above) but that's all part of the Rover's charm.
 - Rear heated screen doesn't work, I assume this is probably just a fuse or something but given the state of the rest of the electrical issues this car has got I wouldn't bank on a 23p fuse fixing the problem.
 - The car has a rather attractive Radio Cassette built in, I do have a code for this but have not mastered how to make the thing work. Not that I am really that bothered, I haven't bought any cassettes since about 1986 and given the dross that they play on Radio 1 these days I doubt I am missing much in terms of entertainment anyway. It's not the same since Simon Mayo stopped doing the top 40 and Dave Lee Travis got fired.
 - The seats are a bit worn as well, but it has done 110,000 miles so that is only to be expected. You could probably camouflage the seats by buying some of those beaded seat covers from the local market anyway, you know, the ones that every minicab driver seems to use. I can't see them increasing the comfort factor by much though, how can sitting on 120 wooden balls be comfortable, you would probably end up with a backside with more dimples on it than a golf ball. Anyway, if you want to buy one of those there are probably loads on eBay but you don't get any with this car.
 - The exhaust system including the catalytic converter needs replacing. On the plus side this does mean that the car makes a rather excellent noise when travelling at speed, however at low speeds it does sound like an asthmatic camel carrying a bin bag full of spanners.

- There may be other stuff wrong with it that I don't know about but I have been driving my kids around in it and I wouldn't do that unless I thought it was safe. Actually, on the subject of kids, if you buy the car and then find a Pokemon card in the back somewhere then my son would quite like it back. I have no idea which Pokemon card it was but the "animal" thing in the picture was yellow and in my opinion looked a bit like Paul Daniels.

What colour is the car?

- Well, a quick look at the photos in this listing will show you that it is a rather attractive shade of red. When it has been cleaned it will be a real "babe magnet", you'll probably see that women suddenly start to notice you and find you more attractive.

A "Babe Magnet", are you sure?

- Ok, that bit probably isn't true, but it is a nice shade of red.

So did women find you more attractive when you were driving this car?

- Ok, you caught me out again there, that isn't strictly true either, most of the women I met tended to think I looked a bit like a horse. Unfortunately while I may resemble a horse in appearance that is where the similarity ends.

It has done 110,000 miles, has it ever let you down?

- Only by not attracting women.

Do you have happy memories of the car?

- Yes, I have some very happy memories, I once backed in to my boss's car in the company car park and while there was no damage to the well built British Rover his low quality piece of French tat looked like it had been driven into a wall. Happy days indeed.

What are the wheels like?

- Well, it has 4 Alloys, they are a bit scuffed but could probably be made to look quite nice with a bit of effort. There is some life left in the tyres as well, if you are interested I can measure the tread on them but they will certainly last a good few thousand miles yet.

What about the spare?

- That's one of those space saver things, I don't think it has ever been out of the boot to be honest. I would rather stick the car on the back of a low loader and pay £120 to get towed off the motorway than drive around with 3 Alloys and one other wheel that looks like it belongs on a scooter anyway. Plus if you have one on your car you can only drive at 50mph, who does 50mph on a Motorway? Old people, that's who, pensioners that drive while wearing hats. So if you know any hat wearing pensioners that still have a driving license then you could probably flog the spare wheel to them. Tell them its "low profile" or something, they're not going to know the difference anyway.

They don't build Rovers any more do they?

- Sadly they don't build Rovers any more and therefore I think you could consider this a "collectors item". This is a vehicle for connoisseurs. Fine wines, excellent food, fashionable clothing and the Rover 214si they all seem to fit together perfectly. You would not feel out of place sipping Champagne and eating oysters next to this car whilst picnicking at Ascot.

But this is such a magnificent vehicle I have so many other questions I need to ask you, what should I do?

- Feel free to ask me any questions you like, my specialist subjects are sport and 1980's pop music however I will attempt any other questions you choose to ask.

Please bid though as buying a replacement car has left me a bit skint and I only have a quarter of a tank of fuel left to last me until payday.

Q: Hi I've noticed in one of your photo's a disabled person being pushed in a wheelchair, Who do you think would win in a race, the fine Rover or the disabled person??? A: Hmm, it would be a close run thing but my money would be on the "Red Rocket"(assuming we could get it started).	26-Mar-09
Q: Hi there, nice advert. I used to have rover 416gsi, on a H plate. Under the layers of dirt it was red. We used to call the car "red rocket". Please feel free to name yours "red rocket" too. It might push up the bidding with a name like that. Thanks, Steve A: Thanks for the suggestion Steve, from now on the "Hot Hatch" shall be known as the "Red Rocket". If the price doesn't go above £250 I am going to be coming looking for you to make up the difference though.	26-Mar-09
Q: I notice that the car appears to have been fitted with a telegraph pole, only visible in the pictures after the Jedi visited, is this strictly legal? Will the lucky buyer receive a payment from BT for this ? A: The car doesn't have a BT land line fitted nor does it come with broadband. The Missus quite likes the idea of being referred to as a Jedi, although perhaps not Yoda. Were there any good looking Jedi, does Princess Leia count?	26-Mar-09
Q: Hi, Steven Gerrard's favourite cheese is pizza cheese. What's yours? A: What on earth is Pizza Cheese? Thank god the bloke is good at football as I doubt he would win any prizes on mastermind. Actually, I shouldn't say that in case I ever meet him in a nightclub. Q: Hi, great car you have there. If I won would this car withstand the freezing temperatures like those in Ice Road Truckers? I quite like the idea of being a trucker but cannot afford a nice Scania or	26-Mar-09

Volvo truck so would like to use this to pull hauls up and down on thin ice!

A: Although this car has legendary "pulling power" i doubt it could shift the kind of stuff they carry in Ice Road Truckers. Thanks for your question.

Q: hi does the rover have a themal imaging camera as would want to take it to iraq in my chopper ? kind regards royal marines

26-Mar-09

A: Unfortunately it doesn't come with a thermal imaging camera, or any other sort of camera for that matter. The Rover would be at home in Iraq as it does have a sunroof and I believe it is quite Sunni over there. Sorry, that joke was a little Shi-ite. Buy my car!

Q: Is this vehicle likely to get me killed?

26-Mar-09

A: Only if you happen to be that hoody chav that broke in to it in Reading and you return to try and steal it.

Q: This is almost as good as the guy selling the large Hadron Collider. Can you tell me if the engine from your Rover will fit my Land Rover and what kind of conversion plate I would need for the clutch? Rover V8s are thin on the ground these days....

26-Mar-09

A: The engine will probably fit in the back of the Land Rover, not sure it would be much use under the bonnet though. Buy it anyway, its still going cheap.

Q: Do you accept luncheon vouchers? I'm very interested in the car but we are not allowed cash in here. If you don't take luncheon vouchers how about a few ounces of snout?

26-Mar-09

A: I assume from your use of the word "snout" that you are residing at Her Majesty's pleasure somewhere. I suspect you maybe considering using the "Hot Hatch" as some sort of escape vehicle. You can rely on the Rover to outrun any of those so called "high powered pursuit vehicles", you certainly wont get done "bang to rights" or "stitched up like a kipper" if you buy this car. Freedom is just a bid away.

Q: Wotcha. Great advert. Your blower problem is probably due to the resistors being... erm... blown. What you (or the buyer) needs is a ROVER HEATER RESISTOR REPAIR KIT. £3.00 on ebay. Fixed my Rover 45 with them. (Bit of a bastard to get to them, though). Cheers, Mark

A: Thanks, I'm sure that the buyer will will have £3.00 left after paying me the tiny amount that this will eventually sell for.

Q: Do you realize that this Rover has actually made you a minor internet celebrity and that the link is flying around email addresses all over the uk,australia and the usa? How do you feel?

26-Mar-09

A: The Rover is the true star of this ad, not me. I am pleased that the car is famous in Australia & the USA, it's nice to know that the bits of the Empire that we didn't want anymore still take an interest in items from the Mother country.

Q: If this vehicle was to feature on "Britains got talent" what would you think it would perform, other than handbrake turns?

26-Mar-09

A: At last, a sensible question! The Rover would just sit there looking sexy yet approachable, women would probably be fainting all around it and men would be looking at it with envy.

Simon Cowell would probably offer it a record contract there and then. Actually, perhaps that would be a better way to make money out of the Rover, would anyone like to buy a 60 min CD containing the sound of me revving the nuts out of it?

Q: I entered Tadley into Google Earth to plan a route to collect the car if successful, I was amazed at the number of what appeared to be round, blue trampolines in peoples back gardens there. Two questions: Is a trampoline included in the sale?. Who was Manager of Sunderland when they beat Leeds in the 1973 FA cup final?

26-Mar-09

A: If you do google earth Tadley you can see the "Hot hatch" on there. I will not be including a big blue trampoline in the sale, however if anyone wants to part ex the Rover for a trampoline please get in touch. It was Bob Stokeo (not sure about the spelling). Bid on the car and i'll get the spelling right for your next question.

Q: Since you seem to know so much about the 80s, I was wondering if your mean machine can time travel like the DeLorean in Back to the Future?

26-Mar-09

A: I suspect that the Rover 214si could indeed go "Back to the future" however the only way it could possibly reach 88 mph would be on the back of a low loader. Or maybe if it was pushed off a cliff. Buy the car and give it a try.

Q: Hi, is this an 8 or 16 valve engine please. If you don't know then a photo would help?

26-Mar-09

A: Oh no, a technical question! Errrr, Elton John, errrr Plymouth Argile, errrr, I'll get back to you on that. Did you notice how i avoided the obvious joke of 8 valves in the engine and another 8 in the radio? I'm quite pleased with myself for not using that old gag.

Q: I am in a singing competition where the first prize is £250. The next couple of weeks are dedicated to different decades and I need to choose a song from the 70's, 80's and 90's. I have a good vocal range for a bloke (bass to tenor). What would you recommend? Oh, I have just bought a new car and wish I had spotted your listing before I did so. Best wishes, James.

26-Mar-09

A: If i were you I would choose "Making your mind up" by Bucks Fizz, i think that song combined with a pair of Chinos that you could whip off part way through the song to reveal some tasteful 1980's blue speedos would go along way to ensuring your success in the competition.

Q: Dear sir - you have found me out. I am indeed from Australia and I guess that makes my jibe about the heated rear window a little redundant. Whilst I feel a little humiliated, in my defence I do think it incumbent to point out that not all of the other 77 questions asked appear to be from genuine buyers. On reflection though, I think I may reappraise my situation. In your little precis of the highlights of the country I now call home, you failed to mention we also lay claim to scorpions, Kevin Rudd, crocodiles, daily shark attacks, Fosters Lager and of course Neighbours. The snakes are actually not that bad - you can eat them if you're really hungry, whereas the cast of Neighbours tend to get a little ratty when you tie them to a rotisserie in hope of settling the rumbling in your tummy. And of course nobody would ever dream Fosters will slake your thirst. In light of this, would you do a part exchange of say Australia, plus 50 quid?

A: Ok, now you have made me feel really bad about my previous comment. Just when you think you have got Aussies worked out one comes along that seems reasonably normal. I have never eaten Snake nor any member of the Neighbours cast, thinking about Neighbours for a moment, are Mrs Mangle and Bouncer still in the programme I would have thought that eating the spiders would have been preferable to the snakes, if you had one for Sunday lunch then all the family could have a leg each! Badum-tish! I'm here all week, you've been a great audience etc etc.

Q: If your rover was travelling at the speed of light will the headlights still work?!! Kind regards Kev

26-Mar-09

A: What is this, a Physics lesson? Given the electrical issues with the car I am not sure they would work if the car was stationary.

Q: How old are you?

26-Mar-09

A: 40, but i look lots younger. The Rover has youth giving properties a bit like those egg things in the swimming pool in the film Cocoon. Buy this car for eternal youth. *Note: the Rover eternal youth claim may not be 100% true, or in fact 1% true. Buy my car!

Q: I can't believe it's not butter. What can't you believe?

26-Mar-09

A: I can't believe you haven't bid on this classic Babe magnet.

Obviously the "Babe" i am referring to is the one in the film, but if you are attracted to pigs then this is the vehicle to have.

Question & Answer

Answered On

Q: I am very interested in buying this soon-to-be-a-classic babe magnet, however I do have a question. I notice that your car has rather unusual number plates which have no letters or numbers. Are these included? If not do you know where I could get some? They would be ideal for avoiding detection when speeding through speed cameras on the M4. And by the way I am obliged to point out that Jo Boxer is just a poor man's Kid Creole...

26-Mar-09

A: I blanked out the plates so that no-one could clone the vehicle. High performance cars such as the Rover 214si are prone to being cloned by the hooded types that stalk our inner cities. If you are worried by speed cameras then the Rover is just the car for you, no judge in the world is going to believe this thing could actually reach 90mph so you could hammer it along the M4 safe in the knowledge that if you end up in court that the case will be thrown out. Obviously none of the above is true so if you get 3 points and a 60 quid fine don't come chasing me for a refund.

Q: Could you and would you deliver it to Glasgow if i won the auction?

26-Mar-09

- A: No and No. Unless I get over a grand for it and you pay for my flight back to civilisation. By the way, i don't accept Scottish money as its worth even less than those Zimbabwean Dollars that someone tried to make me accept 2 days ago.
- Q: What time is it???
- 26-Mar-09
- A: Hammer Time! But unlike MC Hammer you can touch this if you are the highest bidder.
- Q: Its a miracle, you have a passenger footwell mat, tastefully trimmed to match mine. Would you care to list it separately please?
- 25-Mar-09
- A: You can't beat a tastefully trimmed mat! In this case the mat matches the the carpet which is also quite rare these days. It is included in the sale, bid now and bag yourself a bargain.
- Q: Hello, does the boot in the rover big enough to fit a 6 foot 2 randy frenchman?
- 25-Mar-09
- A: The boot smells like there is one in there already.
- Q: You specified in an earlier answer that Showaddywaddy wouldn't fit in the car - do you think I would be able to squeeze in Duffy and Girls Aloud instead?
- 25-Mar-09
- A: I'd certainly be up for finding out one way or another. 5 beautiful women in the Rover, plus the ginger one to give it a push if it wouldn't start.
- Q: Hi, Just wondering who you think will go down this season. Will Sunderland survive and the Mags go down? Thanks
- 25-Mar-09
- A: My colleague here suggests that the obvious answer to your question is Gillian Tailforth, however for legal reasons I would like to point out that nothing was ever proven in that case. Please don't take me to court Gillian. Anyway I seem to recall that that act took place in a Range Rover and not a Rover 214si (allegedly).
- Q: Excellent spot. You should consider moonlighting as a proof reader. I have just noticed that you're (note spelling of you're fellow bidders) located in Tadley - one of my favourite places - where a car like that must make you a prominent and well respected member of the community. Are you not concerned that you will become an outcast? Lamentably, the bid price has exceeded the rally's circumscribed maximum but I have published your ad on the company car blog here at Microsoft so expect some corporate enquiries.
- 25-Mar-09
- A: You work for Microsoft? I can see this would be an excellent company car from anyone in that fine organisation. Rather like your software the Rover will work for a while without any problems and then just stop for no apparent reason. Unlike your software it will not blame the user for the the fact it has decided to no longer work, neither will it then ask me if it can contact its parent organisation to report back on how crap it is.
- Q: What is the tyre pressure of each wheel?
- 25-Mar-09
- A: An excellent question and one that i will choose to ignore. The honest answer is probably "a bit less than they should be" as the "Skill Wagon" has been standing for about a week or so without moving. Thanks for your question.

- Q: Dear sir, I wish to advise you that I would bid on this vehicle, but for the fact that the rear window heater is broken, and I like my hands to keep warm whilst I'm pushing it to the nearest garage. 25-Mar-09
- A: Thanks for your question. I note you are from Australia, the Rover would make a great addition to your country as I believe that all you have at the moment are spiders, snakes, bush fires & skin cancer. Trust me, the Rover is way better than all of those put together.
- Q: Grahame, I have a business proposition for you... As there is still 5 days remaining on your listing, I was wondering if you'd hire the said vehicle out on a daily rental charge ofsay err... a quid per day plus fuel??? I would like to see how the "babe magnet " works it's charm! Maybe the Rover and I would blend perfectly together and I would then buy the machine.... I would of course send you the odd photo/s of my ensuing accomplishments!! On the music score.... here's one you'll not google... My first ever single/45 was Jilted John by Jilted John, but what was the B side song called??? Drew (N/Ireland) p.s. do you realise your on our local radio station?? 25-Mar-09
- A: Hmm, renting out by the day could be a profitable venture. I will give that idea some thought. Jilted John reminds me of the time i went to see John Shuttleworth in Manchester, he was about as funny as an outbreak of rabies in a guide dogs home. I like the idea of being on the radio, ask them to get in touch, they could give my car away as a prize or something. Tell them i don't get out of bed for less than £250 though.
- Q: Being a ex-owner of one of these superb motors (as well as the 400)I have spread the word of yur listing . Here's another sporting question to test your knowledge - nop googling allowed ... Name the player :- A. One england cap . B. 2 European Cup winning medals - for different clubs , but only played a total of 9 minutes in the 2 respective finals . 25-Mar-09
- A: I will go for Steve MacManaman (not in a sexual way obviously), I can't believe he played for England and I was sadly overlooked. It was only by lack of ability and dedication combined with my liking for Meat & Potato pies which stopped me from being a big star.
- Q: I am just in ore gazing at this fine piece of automotive machinery. I am a serious buyer and would be willing to go up to and including £168.34 sterling. Oh yes, you heard correctly. Just a quick question; How many 10 year old immigrants can fit in the boot, and remember, they are malnourished so they are pretty slender. Not that I would do such a thing, i'm just speculating, in case the situation arises in the near future. Also, what's the top speed of the beast, while carrying a fully grown man, and x ammount of illegals in the back, just in case one would need to blow off the rozzers getting through customs. Portsmouth, Southampton or Plymouth Argyle. Who has won the FA cup the most times? 25-Mar-09
- A: You want to "blow off the rozzers"? Wouldn't you rather take them on a few dates to get to know them first? Southampton have never won the FA Cup, that goal in 1976 was miles offside and doesn't count. Pompey is the correct answer.

Q: Is there any kind of warranty with this vehicle? 25-Mar-09

A: Its MOT'd until the end of the month and as this listing ends on the 30th March I think you can be guaranteed 1 day of legal motoring. Personally, I wouldn't even guarantee you will get it started without me giving you a push, was that what you wanted to hear?

Q: Hi is this car any quicker than a BMW 335D "mapped" 25-Mar-09

A: I would suspect the Rover is marginally quicker as it is a red car and everyone knows that red cars are faster than cars of other colours. We could have a drag race to find out for sure but as you drive a BMW you would have to wait for ages for someone to let you out of a side road first. . . Hit me at 30mph there is an 80% chance I will live. Hit me at 40 mph there is an 80% chance I will die. Come up behind me flashing your lights when I am in the outside lane of a motorway doing 85 mph overtaking a long line of traffic and there is obviously no chance I can pull in but you still flash your lights and make V signs like the obsessive compulsive idiot that you really are and there is an 80% chance you are driving a BMW.

Q: I once touched a dead Badger with a spoon, have you ever used an item of cutlery in such a fashion ? 25-Mar-09

A: An excellent question! I have always wondered how all those badgers manage to get to sleep by the sides of the road and why the passing cars don't wake them. Can I ask why your implement of choice was a spoon, do you wander the streets at night hunting for road kill? Are you perhaps some strange Man - Vulture hybrid? Perhaps you were bitten by a radioactive vulture as a child and now wear a vulture costume at night when you go out fighting crime, armed with just a spoon? I can honestly say that I have never touched a dead badger with a spoon or any other item of cutlery. I did once have a pet dog, I called it Badum-badum because that was the noise it made when I ran it over. Buy my car!

Q: Have you reported the Jedi in the picture to the police? 25-Mar-09

A: My Missus took the photos, to the best of my knowledge she is not and never has been a Jedi. And before the next question comes in, she is not a Sith either. Please bid on my car or I will return stronger & more powerful than you can possibly imagine.

Q: I can see you are a person of low means, your work obviously does not pay you that much and you must feel undervalued at work. Don't sell this classic car keep it and make yourself feel good again. 25-Mar-09

A: It needs to go, very sad but that's life. All the money I get for it will go to Great Ormond Street. Not the hospital, but the cash & carry just up the road from it.

Q: Good Morning This is indeed a fantastic listing, I am so glad that you have taken the time to write out such a detailed description of 25-Mar-09 your automobile. Unfortunately I will not be bidding on you auction, as no matter how comical the listing is, it will in no way persuade me to part with my hard earned cash for such a hateful little car. Good day to you sir

A: I am guessing you Drive a Porsche Cayenne and therefore have a very tiny penis. Good day to you also Sir.

Q: Good morrow squire. I am looking for a car that will make it to the arctic circle but which costs under 100 pounds sterling so I can officially enter it in the Scally Rally. My question is, why do my fellow bidders seem unable to grasp basic spelling? For the love of Zeus, people could st least make an effort to use their, they're and there correctly. Post-rally I may convert the Rover into a mobile classroom and force-teach spelling and grammar to unsuspecting philistines. Saying this, when I joined ebay some moons ago I apparently couldn't spell, 'lethal' but I was subsequently taught by a bearded man who teaches (and offers sweets) out of the back of his Reliant Kitten.

25-Mar-09

A: I love the fact you have slagged people off for bad spelling and then in the very next sentence spelt "at" wrong! You are way funnier than I am (although perhaps not intentionally), have you ever considered selling your car on eBay? Good luck with the Rally, but I hope this Rover will go for more than £100 so you may need to look elsewhere for your arctic vehicle.

Question & Answer

Answered On

Q: Hello, I don't have a question; but do have an answer for you! The reason why your car doesn't blow hot/cold air on the first two settings is due to a burnt out relay switch, very comman (with Rovers (I know because guess what I drive?)) and very easy to replace. Hope that helps with your bids. PS thanks for the read it helped to pass some time whilst I was working a night shift. It would seem you have been glorified into a internet celebrity as this is now doing the rounds via email. Peace out.

25-Mar-09

A: Thanks, all the problems with the car are easy to fix i think, except perhaps the fact that at the end of the day it is still a Rover.

Q: Hows it going eh? I have been admiring this add for sometime now, and I have recently been very intrigued by the automobile. I have some questions, would you happen to ship to Canada Land? It would make me a happy man. I have never seen such beauty and comfort from one little red car. It would change the way I view life. Does it really get you the ladies, I was shocked at the "Lesbian in a sushi bar" comment, I honestly need this car now. Back here Canada land it is a custom to own a red car, it would make the ladies wild driving your rover. Is that pokemon card still missing? Because I am a Pokemon Master and I must catch em all... Those are all my questions, I would be very pleased if you would reply to my question ASAP. I need to know if it is possible. Thank you kind sir! Adieu mon ami! whats your favorite 80's song?

25-Mar-09

A: Sir, as you are from Canada I can only assume that living next to the Americans and with the French has driven you mad. Fave 80's song is Centerfold by the J Geils Band

Q: I have followed your succinct and most excellent answers with some pleasure.. but now have one of my own.. Are the Tigers staying up and if they are not you may do well to extend the deadline to your auction a while.. They aint gonna get the wages they are getting now if they go down, so you should open up your vehicle to a whole set of new customers. Maybe a little far for the Tiger's players to travel, so perhaps you could offer it to the Baggies as their players probably live nearer? You may have to spray the car though. You could spray it black and white stripes and potentially be able to include Newcastle in your new customer base with only one change of stripe colour if you did sell it to the Baggies or the Tigers. Worth a thought? I am a dab hand with masking tape and a mask.

25-Mar-09

A: Thanks for your question. I once applied to be manager of Hull City back in about 1990. I told them I was going to bring back the glory days and that I could save them money by going on spying missions to other clubs using my Young Persons Railcard. They never replied and so for that lack of forward thinking I feel that it is no coincidence that only 19 years later they find themselves sliding down the table. Anyway, I don't feel that spray painting the Rover will enhance its appearance enough to make much of a difference to this sale. Thanks for your offer though.

Q: Your obviously a person of considerable intellect, good taste (hence the classic Rover), and knowledge of the important things in life. Two questions:- 1. What year were Birmingham runners up in the FA Cup ? 2. Who had the better 80's perm, Jon Bon Jovi or David Coverdale ? I hope I win your Rover!

24-Mar-09

A: Birmingham City have been runners up more than once I think, 1955/56 was definately one year but i'm not sure about the other years? Wikipedia says they are the current European Champions so that isn't much help. I always thought it was a shame that Jon Bon Jovi didn't have a twin brother called Ron, however regardless of that Coverdale wins the Perm question hands down. I used to have "big hair" in the 1980s, in my own mind I used to look like "Vince" from the TV series Just Good Friends, however in reality I looked more like "Shep" from Blue Peter

Q: Will you ship to Nigeria?

24-Mar-09

A: Let me guess, you have $15 MILLION USD that you want to share with me, but you want me to send you my car first to prove I am who I say I am? Sex & Travel!

Q: Hi, can you tell me what the 'SI' stands for please? I'm lead to believe that it represents 'suspect ignition' or 'sports ironically'? Correct me if I'm wrong only I've just started to try and understand the Rover way... Also are they the limited edition 5 spoke rally fandango race alloy wheels?

24-Mar-09

A: SI stands for "Sexually Inviting", like I said, this car is a real babe magnet. Did you see that question from those women in the office in Berkshire? Trust me, by the end of this auction they'll be all over me like a rash. I am a bit of a moose to be honest but when women see me in this car they start sweating like a blind lesbian in a sushi bar. Bid now while it is still going cheap!

Q: are there any stains on the seats of dubious origin?the sunroof doesn't count,and is that a leather knob you have there?salutations. 24-Mar-09

A: That isn't a leather knob, I'm just pleased to see you. I don't think there are any dodgy stains on the seats, however if that would get you to bid on the car then I am sure I could sort something out for you.

Q: Hi Mate, I read that you seem to know a lot about 80s music, and note that your responses have a great deal of humour, so much that I would like you to consider a straight swap for a Boney M LP and my X reg ford fiesta? I know what you are thinking, and you may be tempted...you drive a hard bargain... I will also throw in The Wombles at Christmas LP if that will sway you. 24-Mar-09

A: Why would a Wombles LP clinch the deal, if I were attracted to things that look like that then I would go down to the local Wetherspoons pub on a Friday night. Anyway, I could never own another Fiesta, the last one I had broke down outside of Nottingham. The gearbox seized up so I just got out and left it where it died, for all I know it's still there.

Q: Dear gbann134. I bid on your car and I really want it but I have been outbid by another bidder and £67.67 is all I can afford. Please ignore the higher bids and sell the car to me instead. I will really cherish it. I have already planned to give it a name and I have already told my family and friends that I will have it soon. If you can't sell it to me for £67.67 then I will understand but please let me know if not. I need time to arrange to sell a kidney and to sign up for and complete some medical trials and prostitute the female members of my family as I am really desperate. I can also come and work for you if I am otherwise unable to raise the money. Please don't let me down. Thanks. oh, p.s. do you know what carbon footprint this car has as I am environmentally conscious and I really wanted a Prius Hybrid but I couldn't afford one so I will have chuck a couple of double-AA batteries in the boot and settle for that instead. Hope that will work. Thanks again. 24-Mar-09

A: Try Decaf from now on.

Q: If the car was a type of animal, what animal would it be and why? 24-Mar-09

A: It would be a Baboon because the arse end is bright red. Actually let me change that, it would probably be a thoroughbred race horse. Lightning quick, an exciting ride, but occasionally temperamental with a tendency not to start if it doesn't feel like it.

Q: Your advert and responses contain far too much information for an ebay sale. Perhaps you could put them in a blog, like scary duck only funny? I think that Beats International featuring Lindy Layton Dub Be Good To Me could be the answer to the rally man, but what do I know? 24-Mar-09

A: I can't believe it, I have people writing to me to answer questions that other eBayers have asked! I have become a chat room.

Q: Surley the aerodynamics and the spory red, accompanied by the fine 1.4 si engine would shame many a 6r4 in the right hands!? As you drive this car everyday there must of been duels with other machinery that the si has emmbarrassed? (Your a comedy genius, you had tears of laughter running down myself and girlfriends cheeks! Cheers mate)

24-Mar-09

A: I did embarass a Subaru Impreza once, however that was only by parking next to it at B&Q.

Q: dear bob or jimmy well those names drive rovers as i read your add my false teeth began jittering i felt warm inside and so did the chair i was sitting on i am dumbstruck to all these questions i think your are the stig cause i've never seen you before will you trade me for this prized asset 40 roubles and a pizza bud bud

A: Were you absent from school the day they did punctuation? I cannot confirm or deny that I am the Stig, however given that he probably gets a 6 figure salary from the BBC do you really think he would be flogging a P reg Rover on eBay?

Q: Hello again I have decided to place a genuine bid on this car with the intention of rallying it. P.s, could you tell me what was number one on 9/feb/1990. cheers

24-Mar-09

A: And what a fine rally car it would make, obviously not in the same class as the Metro 6R4s from the 1980's but still pretty good. Having said that, the 214si is red and therefore it will probably have slightly more straight line speed so you may wish to take it to Santa Pod instead. Best of luck.

Q: I notice in a couple of your photographs there are also a couple of wheely bins - one green and one grey. I could do with a new green one after some pikeys stole mine, are you selling these wheely bins seperately, or are they included in this auction?

24-Mar-09

A: You cant take the wheely bins I'm afraid, that is where I hide at night waiting for that hoody to come back and try and rob my car again. Incidentally you can't use the term "Pikey" anymore as it is not PC, you have to call them Travellers or Thieving Gyppos now.

Q: Dear sir, I am most interested in your item, indeed the pictures of the interior alone have me salivating like a rabid donkey. Could you tell me if the various wrappers, waste and what I imagine to be old boiled sweets stuck to the door pockets are included in the final price? oh, could you also tell me the name of the 80s group to have a number 1 bond theme, the title and the length of time it remained top of the pops?

24-Mar-09

A: Thank you for your question, the interior is like a miniature time capsule inside the door pockets you will find a collection of Mars bar wrappers dating back some 4 years. I wouldn't be surprised if you could find similar ones for sale on eBay today. The door pockets are quite substantial on the Rover, this additional space is included in the sale at no additional cost. I don't really do boiled sweets (not even Werthers Originals) so you won't find any of those in there. Thinking about this again, perhaps I should look for my son's Pokemon card in the pockets? I have decided that I am not answering any more music questions unless they accompanied by a legitimate bid on the vehicle, or perhaps a 50p paypal donation to my "Holiday in Bermuda" fund.

- Q: Excellent best thing ive read all day ive even had a bid on the fine car that is your rover 214si please would you be so kind as to tell me who was number 1 on my birthday 06.10.1983 24-Mar-09
- A: Ooooooh a bidder! In that case i will happily answer your question, it was Culture Club - Karma Chameleon. I was never in to Boy George, and i mean that both musically and physically.
- Q: Do you come with the car as I think it might be worth far more that way. The entertainment value is worth a lot !! 24-Mar-09
- A: I have come with the car in the past, however there may be children reading this so I can't tell you that story.
- Q: I think I love you. You may also be pleased to know that this eBay ad is doing the rounds on the car owners club forums, so hopefully some interest will be aroused. I don't want to buy your Rover, as I have a superior car already, but I may PayPal you 50p towards your next tank of fuel. 24-Mar-09
- A: A superior car? Is there one? I think it might be time for a trip to Vision Express if you think there is a better car on the planet than a 1997 Rover 214si. Thanks for the 50p though, every little helps.
- Q: You are taking this all very well but it's not helping you get a decent price for your collectable motor. Just how much longer are you prepared to continue answering idiot questions, very entertaining as it is? BTW, who had the most number 1 hits during the '80's? 24-Mar-09
- A: Ok, i will make yours the last idiot question I answer! Would a prize for the 1000th bidder help things move on? Perhaps I could give them the Magic Tree that the bloke from Norfolk wanted. Any thoughts?

- Question & Answer Answered On
- Q: Can I have a photo of you? Me and all the other girls in the office think you must be hot, because you're so funny. We're already fighting over you... ;) x 24-Mar-09
- A: Imagine Keanu Reeves behind the wheel of a P reg Rover 214si and thats what i look like, you don't need a photo, trust me :-). Unfortunately I dance like Steven Hawking but that's not really a problem as most of my skills are suited to a more intimate environment.
- Q: As this item is still only at about £50, would you consider trading it for a "PAUL ROSS - 20 Inch Canvas Print", which sells for a similar price, but is generally considered to be worth a lot more? 24-Mar-09
- A: I would rather cut off my own buttocks and sit in a bath of vinegar. Thank you for your question.
- Q: May I ask why you have not bothered to clean this rather magic bargain that seems to be in the top class of conditions 24-Mar-09 for a "to be" classic? Ps... do I get the matts in the foot wells & the magazines you flog out of the 9 year old?? (No stains please...)

A: Yes you can have the mats but not the jazz mags, they will go to form part of my personal collection. Why didn't i clean it, well, i suspect that the dirt is all that is holding it together.

Buy my car!!

Q: No it was Falco, you know, "Rock Me Amadeus...R...R...Rock me Amadeus". You mention this vehicle has a sunroof, but do not mention the dimensions - would this be large enough to enable this item to be used as a rollerskate for a giant? (obviously in conjunction with another similar item)

24-Mar-09

A: This is getting like the film 28 days later, i am convinced that I am the only sane person left in the world and that every one else is infected with a virus that sends them retarded.

Q: Hi! I'm 9 years old and I'm already bored of all the toy cars in my room so I want a bigger one. Can I have yours pretty please? I promise I'll be a good boy and do my homework!
P.S. The '80s German-language song that hit the U.S. charts may have been "99 Luftballons" by Nena!

24-Mar-09

A: Hi kid, if you give me all the money in your piggy bank and it comes to more than anyone else bids then yes you can have my car. Could you also get me Daddy's magazines which he will probably keep under the bed or at the back of his sock draw. Try not to look at the pictures though as this is gentlemen's literature with pictures of rude ladies so it could send you blind or at the very least give you RSI. Good shout about Nena though, but I am still going for "The Hoff".

Q: Greetings, does this car come with the usual Rover extras such as, the boot filling up with copious amounts of water, the water pump leaking and dumping coolant everywhere. As this is such a "hot racer" does this means that the fans blow out cold air even on the hot setting? Please let me know and i may be 100% sure not to buy as currently on stuck on 99.9% Many thanks

A: I see you are familiar with Rovers, have you by chance owned one in the past? The fans do occasionally blow out hot air and sometimes cold air, it just depends how the Rover is feeling as to what temperature you will get. You generally find that the warmer it is outside the hotter the air it blows out on to you is. Never seen any water in the boot though, apart from when i had to wash away the bloodstains from the last person to ask me if it dumped coolant.

Q: Hello What a car love it, can you tell me if the colour is Nightfire Red i hope so, and if so and i brought it could you tell me a good car wax to use to bring it back to its glory days also do you throw in some fluffy Dice for the mirrors to make me look better in the car as i need as much help as possible in that department. Thanks

A: You won't need to the fluffy dice to look good in this car, when you drive down the street in this baby everyone will know exactly what sort of person you are! I suspect you might need more than just wax to bring the paintwork back to its "glory days" but if you are willing to give it a try then don't let me stop you. Incidentally there is a chip in the paintwork on the bonnet where a stone hit it after falling of the back of a tipper truck. It was only the fact that the driver of the truck was about 7 feet tall and 7 feet wide that prevented me from driving after him and telling him what he had done.

Q: We will all be old one day, it's best we prepare early. Would you be prepared to throw-in a flat cap to accompany this horseless carriage?

24-Mar-09

A: This is a "hot hatch", put your foot down in this and it will blow the wax out of your ears! It is not really a flat cap kind of car. Having said that, there is enough headroom in the Rover for you to wear a top hat if you wanted, but i'm afraid any headgear you want to wear in it will need to be supplied by you. I think I will start charging to answer these questions from now on, it seems its the only way i can get the price to go up.

Q: Hi, what is the postage on this item, and do you combine postage costs for multiple items purchased? Also, which 80's musician is the only artist to have achieved a number 1 hit in the U.S.A with a German language song?

24-Mar-09

A: It is collection only, i will not be posting this item, especially not with Fed Ex's recent record. If you want it delivered then could I suggest contacting the Hoody that asked me an earlier question, i am sure that he would be up for driving it at high speed through your letterbox (that's not gay slang by the way). As for the music question I really don't have a clue, I would guess at "The Hoff" but the fact you included the word "musician" rather rules him out.

Q: Are you selling this car because you have bought a new one? If so, is your new one alarmed? If not, what sort of sat-nav have you got in the new car and what nights are you most likely to leave it in the car? PS Will you trade your Rover for a car stereo that looks as if it's been ripped out of another car? Thanks in advance - Hoody

A: They always say that the thief returns to the scene of the crime! I have coated the windows with depleted Uranium as a little surprise for you, it may reduce your natural life but it will increase your half-life if you come anywhere near it. I feel i will have to decline your kind offer of a swap of a stereo for the Rover, it is Paypal or nothing i'm afraid.

Q: In the main picture, the photographer's shadow is the bottom left hand corner, suggesting the sun was south by south west. But the president was killed by a bullet supposedly fired from the texas book depository, which is to the north of reading. There is no way you could have driven this car, taken that photo, and left the grassy knoll. The picture has been photoshopped. I don't think this is a genuine advert, and you sir are a charlatan. Or maybe a happy monday. Can I come and kick the tyres, think long and hard for a while, and then not buy it? are timewasters welcome?

A: Kevin, I assume from your question that you have either been inhaling dubious substances or perhaps have consumed far too much Lidl own brand Cyder. I think that you are the best advert in favour of the Government's plans to increase the price of cheap alcohol that they could possibly wish for. Go and have some strong coffee and a lie down, you'll feel better in the morning.

Q: This is a prime candidate for PIMP MY RIDE - have you considered pimping it and making a small fortune?

24-Mar-09

A: Hi, I am not sure that the Rover is really "Pimping" material, however if you believe that adding a stereo the size of Rick Waller and supergluing some blue neon strip lighting from a convenience store to the sills will increase the value of the car then be my guest. It is still at a very low price despite some retard trying to bid £999,999.99 for it so place a bid yourself.

Q: You completely failed to mention if there is suitable storage for my pipe and slippers in this fine sports machine? And is there any external drainage for my colostomy bag? Yours urgently C Nile Git Esq.

24-Mar-09

A: I am afraid that those extras are only available on the River 214 OAP model, the 214si is packed with features but it was aimed at the younger and more fashionable market and so those extras were not included. Could I recommend you do an eBay search for a Beige Austin Maestro as that sounds more suited to your requirements.

Q: Hello kind sir. May I congratulate you on your choice of rare ferrari, as demonstrated by the rare 'go faster ferrari colours and alloys'. However on a serious note, could this car be turned upside down and used as a boat, I am planning on ferrying illegal immigrants, would you care to join me in this venture? Kind regards Gwynne

A: Thank you for your enquiry. The Rover can accommodate 5 illegal immigrants in comfort and if you blacked out the windows I feel sure that you could get the occupants past customs. I am afraid I can only help you if you are ferrying them out of the UK rather than in to it though, if that's what you were planning then we could probably fit a couple in the boot as well.

Q: Best... Ebay Item.... Ever..... Seriously.... Is it just me that thinks that James Blunt is quite good?

24-Mar-09

A: I believe that James Blunt is actually the latest addition to Cockney Rhyming Slang. An example of it's use being: - "Stop acting like a complete James and bid on my Rover". Thank you for your question.

Q: Hi My husband was born on the 11th february 1959 , were the pop charts in existence then , if so who was number 1 at the time Many thanks Ps Are there any mushrooms growing in the boot of the Rover ?

A: I don't do 50's music i'm afraid, try someone who is selling an Austin Allegro on eBay, they might be able to help you. As for the boot, I don't know about mushrooms in the boot but there is certainly much room in it! See what I did there? Mushroom - Much Room! Oh suit yourself, I thought it was funny anyway.

Q: Just noticed you've not answered the question about number 1 on 31st July 1981. Think it was Ghost Town by The Specials. Also wondered what particular French car you hit at work? Finally, are you going to be emptying the crap out of the door pockets before selling?

23-Mar-09

A: I was never a big fan of the Specials, now Fun Boy Three on the otherhand were a class act. I once saw Terry Hall in Stockport town centre but thats another story. As for the minor accident, I hit a Peugeot 206 i believe, these Euro-boxes all look the same to me, no character. Even though the Rover has class leading visibility both front & rear my ability to reverse was affected by the bag of Pickled Onion flavour Monster Munch I was trying to consume. Incidentally that very bag is now shoved into the drivers side door pocket and is available as a bonus item in this auction.

Q: Greetings from Khazakhstan, Hello English friend, A year ago I come to England and make many reportings. I learn every Englishman must have a hobby. Some like to collect the stamp, some like to make the jam, but the most fun is to a kill a little animal with a shotgun or rip them up with wild dog. I read that this cars has a how do you say 'babe magnet', show me the babe magnet. In my trip to the U S and A I learn of such magic. High Five! Jagshemash and Chinquee, Borat Sagdiyev

A: Greetings to you to my friend. The Rover is the premier marque of vehicle here in the UK, it is the equivalent to the Ferrari in Italy the Porche in Germany or the Tractor in Khazakhstan. It is the very essence of British quality and reliability and is used by world renowned Casanovas as a "Pulling Wagon". Unfortunately the only woman that ever showed an interest in me while I was driving it was the female Police Officer who caught me doing 90mph on the M40 in Warwickshire. She did write to me once but that was to demand my licence and £60, sadly we are no longer in touch

Q: Hello, I am interested in your red shed, do you have a scrap-it-now price in mind? - Can I offer you one?

23-Mar-09

A: I have seen through your cunning ploy, you are actually a representative from the Tate Modern looking for a cheap example of this work of modern art. Bid on the car like everyone else, you might just get lucky.

Q: What is your opinion of the person that bid £10 for your

23-Mar-09

Rover? A bit optimistic I think. How could they ever expect to get such a quality car for that sort of money? Do you take Zimbabwe Dollars - I have $100,002,000,000 in cash if that sounds appealing? Let me know. Thanks.

A: Anyone that bids on the Rover is obviously a man of considerable taste so I salute that person whoever he or she may be. If you choose to bid on the Rover then I will take anything you have, book tokens, Nectar Points, Luncheon Vouchers, you name it and i'll accept it. Paypal on the other hand will probably tell you to poke yourself and as that is my only accepted method of payment i fear you may be out of luck.

Q: Hi, I'm not actually looking to buy a car at the moment, I just wanted to mention that if you sat on a golf ball. Golf balls typically have 300-600 dimples.

Q: Couple of questions: I have a 'flash in the pan' 7" single I believe it was the highest placed single in the famous group can you name them too? One final question regarding footie, what is the best goal you have

A: I am assuming that you are referring to "Gold" by Spandau Ballet, perhaps the older member you are referring to. Anyway, it is widely accepted that the greatest goal ever scored was by Kevin McKenzie during a 5-a-side game overlooked by the scouting system in Scotland I will never know. The goalkeeper that day was, i believe a thunderbolt of a shot. Anyway, if Kevin were reading this I feel sure he would bid on this vehicle as it

Q: Hello, I have two questions: 1). Is the 'walnut' dash real walnut? I'd hate to be let down by cheaper imitation Hoople? Thanks in advance, James

A: James, I would find it hard to believe that Rover would use anything other than 100% genuine walnut. The Sultan of Brunei is bidding on all 1997 Rovers as the quality of the dash is so high that he wants to use it. I am sending him in to a heightened state of excitement when he looks at it. Anyway, I read that on Wikipedia

Q: Do you like the music of Showaddywaddy ?

21-Mar-09

A: Showaddywaddy were indeed an excellent band, who amongst us can forget the dancefloor burner that is "Under The Moon Of Love" - a true classic. Sadly their were 8 members of the band (including 2 drummers) so they would not all fit in the Rover. This is a hot hatch not a tour bus and so if you were enquiring on their behalf i think you may have to continue your search for a vehicle elsewhere. Thanks for the question though.
